Gaithersburg Gazette
9/3 4/64

MONKEY-SHINES...one of several monkey escapees in the Hyattstown area seems a bit disgusted at being tracked down and caged once again. Three of them broke loose from the home of a Hyattstown resident who is reportedly conducting experiments on them, and have had local residents in an uproar with their hi-jinks. Sticking close to the Hyattstown area, the animals are seen repeatedly on rooftops, porches, garages, and even invade basements to steal food and water. Earl Edwards and Norman Garry seem to be conducting a whistling contact with one of them here. Photo by "Ace" Hershey